

Risks involved in Dogsledding

- We work with animals that are unpredictable. Please approach dogs that you do not know with caution.
- Sleds can tip over, thus the reason for the weight limit.
- Eye protection should be worn because of High Altitude, glare and reflection of the sun off of the snow, blowing winds, falling snow, low-lying tree and willow branches, and dogs kicking up snow as they run.
- Trail conditions vary during the season from smooth and slow to fast and bumpy.
- Winter weather conditions vary during the season from snowy with temps below zero to 50 degrees and sunny.
- This is a passive activity for the passenger. You are not producing any active body heat, therefore appropriate outdoor, winter weather clothing is essential to help keep you warm. We do not provide clothing. That is your soul responsibility as told to you when you made your reservation.
- If you have any neck problems, back problems, pregnancies or any other illnesses or injuries let us know at this time.
